Tell me how it will help me

Long-term investors and day traders have vastly different software requirements to suit their specific trading needs. This is why we designed Viewpoint—scalable software on a single web interface.

Viewpoint can be easily configured to meet each user's specific trading and market data needs without the hassle of managing multiple software deployments across different user groups.
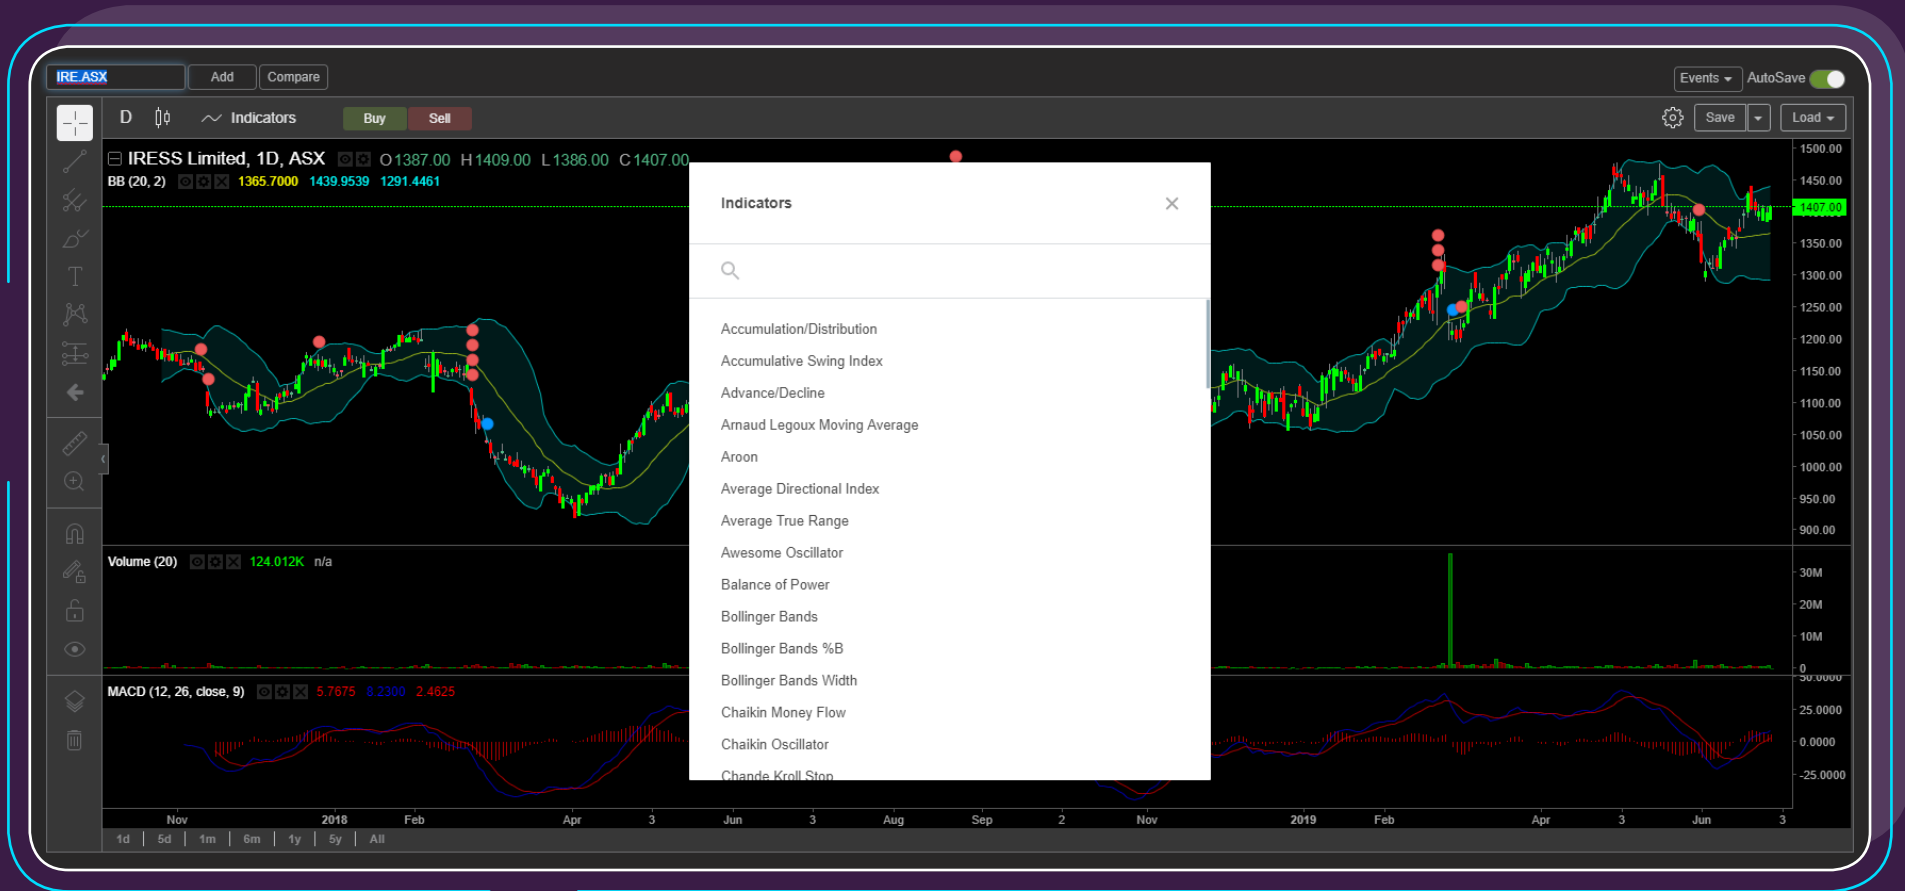

This cost-effective software offers you tiered options—with the ability to add on at any time—providing you the flexibility you need and ensuring you only pay for what you use.

Tell me what it actually does

ViewPoint is web-based trading and market data software offering multi-asset, multi-market trading and real-time market data.

Co-designed with investors and traders, ViewPoint is highly customisable and includes robust technical, fundamental and trading features. Providing both you and your clients 24/7 access from most browsers.

Can you break it down for me?

Order pad

Track your order status and trade quantities in real time. View historical and contingent order strategies.

Portfolio

Allows for live valuation of a portfolio based on current market value and live visual of the holdings breakdown including details.

Integration

Compatibility with Microsoft Excel allows you to perform custom calculation, analysis and visualisation of stock market data.

Trade alerts

Create alerts to ensure you don't miss relevant order or trade events. Set notification against specific security price, liquidity and news events.

Broadcasting

Using broadcasting, all of your widgets are connected and will update at the same time. Therefore, when using multiple widgets for analysing the market or your portfolio, there is no need to input the same security code or portfolio code in each widget.

Depth histogram

Offers a visual representation of market depth using line and bar charts that shows liquidity across various price points for a particular stock.

Quick trade

Enables a click order entry experience for active traders with minimal input for fast processing.

Contingent orders

Allows for creation and application of your own order strategies, including exit and entry points.

Charts

Choose from over 50 charting indicators, or over 50 drawing tools, and perform detailed analysis to find valuable trading opportunities.
